From the shadow of the television tower, it goes first over the Nikolaiviertel to the Museum Island. Along the street Unter den Linden we then head for the Brandenburg Gate, including a pan across the Gendarmenmarkt.

We move you on both sides of the Spreebogen and bring you closer to the changeful history of this area. During our leisurely round, you will of course see the Bellevue Palace and the Reichstag as well as the numerous new buildings such as the Chancellery, Houses of Representatives and Parliamentary Library. Via Tiergarten it goes to Potsdamer Platz. Get your own picture of Berlin's new crowd puller.

Then we will show you the remains and the course of the Berlin Wall between the former Checkpoint Charlie and the memorial on Bernauer Strasse.
